

THE KNOCKER'S COLUMN.

A FEW RAPS AT THE SPORTS.

Has Tommy Ryan, who was only a few short weeks ago so profuse in issuing challenges, been buried alive? He has actually been quiet for two weeks, but it is probably only a vacation for Tommy. Either that or he's looking for a new stonemason. The man who makes this fighter up should never be allowed in a boxing show. When Tommy's sleeping he's really nice, but when his mouth begins going he's awful.

The success which big 275-pound Roberts of the Harvard football team is making at the game has led big Ed Dunkhorst to apply to some college for admission. He wants to get on a football team. It is impossible to get a runner past a good end, and any means that will get the end out of the play is easily achieved.

Capt. Daly's plan is to have both ends on the side having possession of the ball line up in front of the opposing end.

Joe Humphreys is not going to Washington Park any more this season. He had several hundred cents bet on the Champions to win the pennant and says he hardly sees the use of his further appearance at the Brooklyn Club's home. Joe will probably absent himself because the little red flag on the corner have been almost emptied.

Dick O'Brien, the middle-weight who didn't become famous through his fight abilities but through his corpulence, is still fighting. He has been in the Chicago last week in a six-round bout. The victim must be nearly the first four letters of his name imply.

Dick is going to fight Jack Root now. It's hardly probable that he'll return a two-time winner.

Weeks, the right halfback of Columbia's football team, is under the impression that he's a runner or sprinter. What strange ideas some people have of themselves! Maxey Long could give him 200 yards in 400 and win in a walk. That's how good Weeks is.

Van Hovenberg, the right end of the Columbia team, apparently is in the opinion that he's a fighter. He's big enough to be one, but he wouldn't stand a chance of escaping a touchdown to earth with little inviolated George Munroe.

It's with regret that I have to tell of Bob Fitzsimmons' predicament. Some one must have worked a magic wand in his presence. Bob was mind-boggling for a casher the other day and jokingly took what he himself says positively was three $5 bills. The cashier was "in a sweat," and Bob was enjoying the joke. When Bob went to settle the five had changed to one. He paid them back, but the cashier says he is still twelve shy.

Tom O'Rourke is getting grayer every day. The death of the fighting man is certainly missed by him. Seldom do these 50 per cent "divines" with his proteges come his way.

Tom's only remark these days is: "Wait until next February."

"Young Griffo," who in his time was known as the cleverest feather-weight in the world, is said to have been sent back to an asylum in Chicago a few days ago. He got the better of him again and he was again running about the streets in his bare feet.

The asylum ought to be his home the rest of his life. Of all weak-minded men this Griffo is the weakest. Few would mourn his loss.

As the Giants' managers glanced over their reserved list before sending it to President Young for publication their chests must have swelled up several inches. Such a list! There's nothing in it to cause pride. It does look as if New Yorkers would never see a good team again in their city. But the magnates can do something if they wish to.

Owen Zeigler has had a fire in his gymnasium at Bath Beach. Now that could have caused that! Owen had a mat which Corbett gave him. It must have been the hoodoo. Ask any superstitious person and he'll tell you that nothing Corbett ever had and gave ever produced anything but hard luck.

So "Kid" Brod has at last been successful in getting on a match with Terry McGovern. He's to meet the champion in Chicago in a six-round "go" post.

"Kid" somebody must have told him he's a world beater. He'll probably be able to speak without a lip after Terry gets through with him.

Johnny Dunn is all smiles to-day. Why? Because he won a double victory in Quakertown last night. Matty Matthews put it all over Jack Bennett, of McKeesport, in a six-round no decision affair, and only judicious spritzing saved his Bennetts from a sojourn in the happy hunting grounds. Jimmy Hendler knocked Bob Hanrahan as cold as an ice pick in a four-round affair, and another trip. Dunn manages both Matthews and Hendler. Now, do you wonder why he smiles? Oh, yes, they won again in Philadelphia. Steve Flanagan's death didn't prove a knockout blow for the sport after all.

Who on earth is that press agent the bookies have got? He's truly a wonder and pulled on a trick yesterday that would have netted him several hundred thousand dollars. He's a bookie, an old bookie that probably has all he can do to go to the post and the tipper going.

Everybody knew of it and every "come-on" had a few on him. He was the play in the pool rooms that the bookies actually thought; he would win, and closed on himself. He finished last and a couple of porters were employed by every pool room keeper to sweep up the vast amount of greenbacks that had rolled in.

"So note it be!"

The "brutal" game of boxing has been stopped by law, but those wise guys in the Assembly continue to allow money to run their constitutions riding thousands of miles a week. Such a waste, not!

HARVARD'S FOOTBALL PLAYERS PRACTISE NEW TRACK PLAY FOR COMING GRIDIRON BATTLE.

Crimson Players Depend on Outwitting Columbia's Ends by Strategic Moves in Saturday's Game.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 8.—Harvard's football squad are being put through their paces in a lively fashion just at present. The Columbia game on Saturday has caused the coaches to give all their attention to team work and the conditions that will bring for a position on the Varsity eleven at all any work.

A new trick play was practiced yesterday, with fair results. It had its inception in the strategic brain of Capt. Daly, and last night he was much elated over the way it had worked against the scrub. On the defense the ends lay away out, in order to head any runner in their section toward the center. It is almost an impossibility to get a runner past a good end, and any means that will get the end out of the play is easily achieved.

The beauty of this trick play, however, is that it can be worked in two ways. When the opposing captain sees his ends kept out of the play in this manner he is very likely to take a man from the line somewhere to reinforce the end position. Here is where the nicey of the play comes in. Wherever there is a man taken away to help the end, there is the spot where the next attack will be made and not out at the end. The line, temporarily weakened by the absence of a player, becomes the weakest point in the team, and as such the logical point of attack.

In the illustration Capt. Daly is bent over in the position of an end on the defense and opposite to him are two of the candidates for end on the Varsity team. Daly is explaining to them the details of the trick play and having them ready to block him away from the main running with the ball.

An end play is always a pretty one when the runner can get past the op-

RESULTS AT MORRIS PARK.

Ranch of Paso and Fairview Selling Stakes Only Features.

(Special to The Evening World.)
RACE TRACK, MORRIS PARK, Oct. 9.—Bad days have been so infrequent at the race track this season that every one felt the weather today.

The betting ring was filled with the greater lot of grumblers that have ever gathered together. They looked at the weather, growled at the track and bemoaned Mr. Chickmore for the mean programme he served out. The wet track, bad weather and uninteresting programme were not calculated to draw out a large crowd, and people in the grand stands were as scarce as deer on a half-leas dog.

The stake featured were the Ranch of Paso and Fairview Selling Stakes, of which Miss Gast is also a member. The packers were bringing the young woman back on her 75th mile at noon today, and when West's Hotel at Valley Stream, the trading headquarters, was reached they looked like animated mud images as they clattered for a few minutes' rest.

Miss Davis, her trainer, and Mr. Cohen took pieces of wood and scraped some of the mud from the clothing of the young woman rider. She was a little tired from the hard work of pushing the mud, but otherwise was in good spirits.

Miss Gast was clad in a pair of white overalls made from an old cloth covering from one of the hotel tables. Over her shoulders was thrown a cape of figured oilcloth, and on her head was a sort of Spanish cap.

Her packmen had also provided themselves with alcohol trousers, and one in particular, Henry Wehman, presented a truly grotesque appearance. He was attired in a sort of one-piece suit, which was entered through a slit in the top. His feet were incased in rubber boots, and the only semblance to a bicycle rider was given by his bicycle cap.

Harry Davis, the husband of Miss Gast's trainer, wore a huge slouch hat, a couple of heavy sweaters and a pair of cavalry boots, into which the legs of his oilskin trousers were tucked. If this motley crowd were to appear on the streets of the city there would be a hurry call for a couple of patrol wagons, but this outlandish attire was a necessity.

As for Miss Gast, the thought of giving up the undertaking she had trained for so carefully for the past two months was out of the question. She hurried to her room for a shower bath and rubbed down and a hasty lunch before starting out again.

The packers for the first 50 miles included Mr. and Mrs. H. Davis, A. Nebel, H. Aufderheide, H. Gorman, F. L. Singer, J. J. Hall, E. Newland, F. Frankenstein and J. Jones.

Those who piloted Miss Gast through the dreary night and in the morning hours were Henry J. Wehman, F. Albert, Levisque, Leon J. Cohn and Harry Davis.

PLUCKY MISS GAST NOT AGHAST AT MID.

Young Cyclist After the 2,000-Mile Record in Best of Spirits.

On a road that resembled anything but a public thoroughfare a group of mud-covered cyclists were pedaling slowly along, dismounting at frequent intervals to cross some almost knee-deep mire or make their way over the gutter to some inviting strip of side path that was all too short.

The party consisted of Miss Marguerite Gast, who is out for the 2,000 mile record, and the title of champion woman cyclist of the world, and a couple of her packmen, Henry J. Wehman and Harry Davis, members of the Century Road Club, of which Miss Gast is also a member.

BEARS WERE IN CONTROL.

Market Dull and Lower After Steady Opening.

Trading at the Stock Exchange showed a lack of animation today, with prices from 1-4 to 3-4 per cent. lower. Prices opened steady, but soon yielded to bear pressure, and after wavering for a short time began a general downward movement, with the exception of Sugar, which gained 1-2 per cent.

Toward the end of the first hour the dealing was checked and the deficiencies were soon made up, some of the stocks showing net gains of 1-2 to 3-4 per cent. by this rally, as Union Pacific, Tennessee Coal & Iron and Baltimore & Ohio, were up about 3-8 per cent. each, whereas Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific and St. Louis and Southwestern gained about 3-8 per cent. each.

Trains were dull and showed fractional losses. Brooklyn Rapid Transit dropping 1-2 point and Manhattan 1-4 per cent.

Railway shares were the retreating feature, and although the volume of business in these stocks was not large they all received bids, and small fractional gains were the rule.

The small trading was confined largely to the specialties and Sugar was marked steadily upward to 117 3-4. The bulls then bought Pennsylvania and People's Gas, which lifted them sharply.

Prices all around became better, but the demand was small and standard railroad stocks did not benefit much. C. C. & St. Louis rose a point.

An easier tone developed toward midday, and the advances in Sugar, Pennsylvania and People's Gas were largely reduced. Bonds were quiet and irregular.

The market became almost stagnant and very inert in the afternoon. The only perceptible movement was in stocks that seldom move. Great Northern preferred fell 2, Continental Tobacco preferred rose 1-4 and Pullman 2-1-2.

The announcement of the engagement of a million frames in gold in Paris for New York gave strength to the market. Heated members of the steel group moved upward a point and 14th Plate gained 2-1-4.

Brooklyn Transit rose 1-4 and the general list hardened. Missouri Pacific leading the railway group with a recovery of a point. St. Paul & Omaha fell 1-4, while the steel group was a recovery of a point below the last sale which was made some time ago, and Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville preferred fell 1-4.

City rise was short lived and prices fell back. The closing was dull and irregular and with very few net changes of any importance.

The total sales of stocks today were 197,130 shares, and of bonds $688,000 par value.

The Closing Quotations.

COLUMBIA'S NEW PLAYER.

Columbia's men put in a hard day's work on Manhattan Field yesterday afternoon. Three new players showed up for practice and from the manner in which they worked they are very valuable additions. One of them in particular was Henriques, who played a well, and he gives fair promise of being made one of the ends.

Capt. Daly instructed the players in some new plays, which worked admirably against the scrub eleven. One of them involved the placing of the two ends at the back of the line and in front of the half backs. When the ball was passed to little Ashley, the ends would seize him by the seat of his pants and fire him over the line. The play worked fine yesterday, but whether it can be done successfully in an actual game remains to be seen.

PENNSY'S MEN'S LIGHT WORK.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Signal practice and how to make trick plays chiefly constituted the work of the 35 men of the eleven yesterday. The weather would permit of nothing else. In the passing around of the ball the men handled it poorly and were reminded by Coach Egan, who said the men longer at it than he ordinarily does.

N. Y. U. PLAYS STEVENS.

New York University's football men put in a light day's practice yesterday, owing to their game with Stevens this afternoon. The team is in exceptionally good shape and expects no difficulty in winning from the Jerseys. The same team are lined up on Saturday will play today.

WHEAT WAS STEADY.

The wheat market opened steady, with considerable selling by local houses in sympathy with further weakness in the Northwest. Corn was steady but quiet. New York's opening prices were: December wheat, 71-3-4; December corn, 51-1-4 to 51-1-2.

Chicago's opening prices were: November wheat, 76-1-4; December wheat, 75-1-4; December corn, 42-1-4; November corn, 41-3-4; December corn, 41-1-4.

THE COTTON PRICES.

The cotton market opened steady today and two points lower to four points higher. The opening prices were: October, 10-15; November, 10-14 to 10-15; December, 10-17 to 10-18; January, 10-16 to 10-17; February, 10-15 1/2; April, 10-16 to 10-17; May, 10-16 to 10-17; June and July, 10-11 to 10-12; August, 9-12 to 9-13.

The closing prices were: October, 10-16; November, 10-15 to 10-16; December, 10-17 to 10-18; January, 10-16 to 10-17; February, 10-15 1/2; April, 10-16 to 10-17; May, 10-16 to 10-17; June and July, 10-11 to 10-12; August, 9-12 to 9-13. Market steady.

Perfection of Modern Cooking can only be obtained by use of a GAS RANGE. This is now an admitted fact. In comparison all other methods seem crude, primitive and unsatisfactory.

FAITH CURE FORTYPHOID.

Mrs. Trowbridge Declines to Call Doctor for Her Daughter.

Mrs. William Trowbridge, of 102 Park street, East Orange, N. J., still declines to call a physician to attend her twelve-year-old daughter, who is ill with typhoid fever.

When a reporter for The Evening World called at the house to-day, Carington Henning, a well known young man who is one of the readers in the Christian Science Church there, was present. He and another reader have been treating Miss Trowbridge.

Mrs. Trowbridge admitted that her daughter had been very ill, but said that she was improving. The mother is a recent convert to Christian Science and has not yet joined the local church, but she says she intends to.

She and Mr. Henning were very indignant at the way in which the newspapers treat the cult. She insisted that the scientists have effected remarkable cures, and cited as an instance the case of Dr. Wm. Tunstead, an Orange lad, who recovered from lockjaw after being treated by the local Christian Scientist.

Mrs. Trowbridge did not state, however, that after Tunstead had been treated by the scientists Dr. William B. Graves was called in and the boy was removed to the Orange Memorial Hospital, where his recovery was effected by heroic treatment.

Mr. Trowbridge said that there was considerable opposition in her family to her embracing Christian Science, but she hoped that when her daughter's health was restored this opposition would be removed.

Mr. Trowbridge is in the mental business at 48 West Street. Dr. Wm. Mitchell, the Health Physician of East Orange, has not made any report of the case to the Christian Science Church, and refused to discuss it at all. He left his home this morning to be absent all day, but Mrs. Mitchell said:

Dr. Mitchell has found that all the State laws have been complied with and there is no danger. It is a private affair, and there is no reason why there should be interference.
